Tinnakorn Kasornsuwan & His farmers on canvases

A lecturer currently at the Department of Fine Arts, Srinakharinwirot University, Tinnakorn is naturally gifted in painting. Apart from the numerous awards he has received both locally and internationally since his early adulthood, Tinnakorn has now made his paintings on Thai farmers something of his own.

Evolving from his very fine etching works, he finds painting with oil much more fascinating and satisfying. Focusing on Thai farmers' and their everyday life, he uses bold as well as fine lines to depict farmers' physique and related environments in an abstract form with shallow dimensions. In order to increase the public's awareness of the existence of those farmers, Tinnakorn presents the beautiful aspects of their work, hope, passion and love in an artistic and poetic way.

Progressive as he has always been, Tinnakorn constantly searches for new directions for his art.

For his collection "Introducing Farmers," one can see many floating lines on top of the simple background. These lines represent the sense of freedom. At the same time, they make the paintings more engaging. These boundless lines also represent many simple objects both in the state of either reality or sub-consciousness of mind. Each of his paintings is three-dimensional. He created millions of lines on top of figures or vice versa in achieving the ultimate artistic combination. The end result is a fantastic formation in contemporary oil painting.

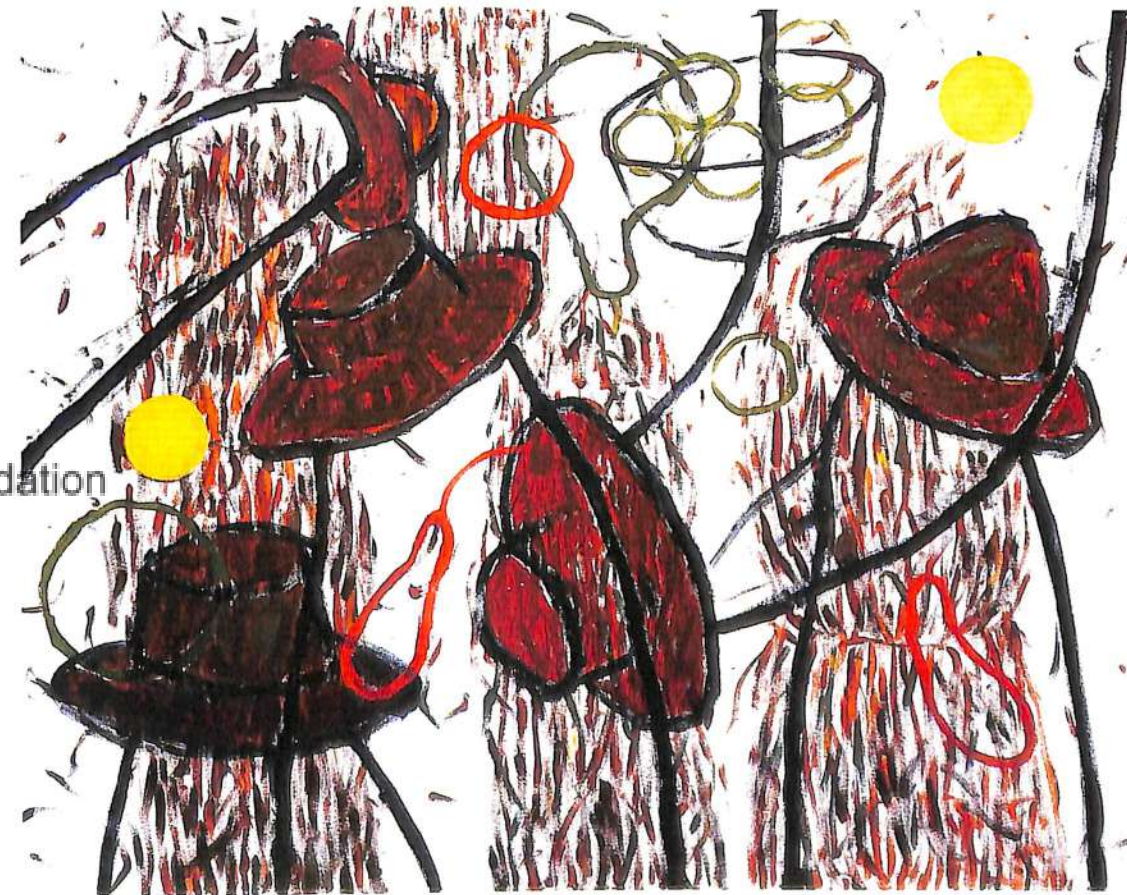

Tinnakorn's contribution will certainly have a positive position in the field of fine arts, and the Thai society consequently.
