The Fine Art Exhibition A Feast of Colours

EDVARD SASUN

Edvard Sasun was trained at the prestigious Academy in St. Petersburg in the Russian classical art school. He took part in the Europ'ART 2000 in Geneva, and his realistic portraits and paintings of still life, flowers, and marine landscapes are masterpieces in the classical tradition.

PHILIPPE MARCHAND, France

Philippe Marchand views art as the spirit's language for ideas, dreams and feelings that cannot be expressed through words. His colourful paintings are like windows into the spiritual world, and we can look at the paintings as mirrors of our reality.

KIMYONG MI, Republic of Korea

Kim Yong Mi worked as an artist in India for several years, and her paintings are like a diary of her life and her every day's illusions. Her colourful works of art are usually made in mixed media, and they reflect years of her life as a nomad traveling for many years across the world.

MARTIN COLLINS, Britain

Martin Collins spent time in Barcelona and New York where he took part in the international art scene and staged several shows. He tries to breathe life into materials in a search for interest, surprise and new, strange beauties.

IAN DOUGLAS, Britain

Ian Douglas's vibrant and striking collages explore themes common to humanity everywhere: Nature, the environment, the spiritual, the joys and miseries of life. Using his own unique techniques, his works achieve a dazzling mosaic style.

ERIC RENAUD, France

Eric Renaud's lifelong fascination with exploration and lost civilizations is the subject matter of his latest serial of paintings and drawings. His impressionist approach evoke the mystery and romance of the golden age of discoveries and are the result of his worldwide travels - including a collection of artworks that is a personal homage to the splendor of the Khmer Empire.
